Paddy O’Brien Named President of Peripheral Intervention

FRANKLIN LAKES, N.J., Nov. 6, 2020 – BD (Becton, Dickinson and Company) (NYSE: BDX), a leading global medical technology company, today announced the appointment of Paddy O’Brien to worldwide president, Peripheral Intervention, effective October 24.

In his new role, O’Brien will have responsibility for driving global strategic, operational and commercial performance across the Peripheral Intervention portfolio, which includes focused areas of oncology, peripheral arterial disease and end-stage kidney disease.

“Paddy brings unique capabilities to the leadership role in Peripheral Intervention, with a proven history of unparalleled product innovation, attention to product quality, customer focus and delivering consistent and meaningful business results,” said Simon Campion, executive vice president and president of the BD Interventional Segment. “In addition to his business impact, Paddy’s knowledge of the healthcare industry, strategic vision and embracing of diverse perspectives make him an exceptional choice for this role.”

O’Brien began his career at BD over 20 years ago, holding positions of increasing responsibility, including vice president of marketing and vice president of sales for peripheral intervention. Most recently, he served as the vice president and general manager for the global platform focused on solutions for peripheral arterial disease and end-stage kidney disease.
